French Chauffeur, and Passenger Fight Case Through Two Different Courts.

Paris, Aug. 17.—Two weeks, or 4 cents was the amount in question in a case between a taxicab driver and his fare, which was tried first before a justice of the peace, and then, on appeal before the civil tribunal of the Seine.

And I have often asked the question. The truth of the matter is that the current is momentarily stored through means of the coil, and when the circuit is broken by means of the commutator or other form of interrupter the tendency of the current is to keep on flowing, so it is the gap in the order to complete its circuit, as it does, or tends to do, it is necessary for it to jump from one point to another.

"Many motorists do not understand the difference between a magneto and a dynamo," said Emil Grossman, manufacturer of the Red Head spark plug. "And I have often asked the question. The truth of the matter is that the current is momentarily stored through means of the coil, and when the circuit is broken by means of the commutator or other form of interrupter the tendency of the current is to keep on flowing, so it is the gap in the order to complete its circuit, as it does, or tends to do, it is necessary for it to jump from one point to another."

The Board of Aldermen of New Bedford, Mass., probably deserve the distinction of being the most painstaking municipal officials in the entire country. Recently it was decided upon to purchase an automobile, and to make sure of their venture and secure the best investment of the public money, fifty-nine different makes of cars were examined and considered. The Abbott-Detroit "4" won, and an order was immediately placed with W. M. Jenkins & Co., of Boston, distributors for the Abbott Motor Company in Massachusetts.

An interesting automobile run was made last week between Detroit and Iowa Falls, Iowa, by Clara McDowell, manager of the Abbott Motor Sales Company at the latter place, with a thirty roadster. The entire distance of 377 miles was covered with ease the fourth day after leaving Detroit, with no thought of creating a record. Fearful road conditions were met in many places, but the car pushed through without difficulty and without a single mechanical adjustment, and reached its destination with the same air that was pumped in the tires at Detroit.

Unique among the wagers that have been made involving automobile travel and globe trotting is an agreement which Dr. H. Benton Young, of Trenton, N. J., and William R. Kumpf, of Mount Holly, N. J., have attempted to fulfill with the certainty that one or the other will win $10,000.

Starting with a high-powered automobile and only a $1 bill in his pocket, Dr. Young has begun a trip from Trenton to California. Under the conditions of the wager, he must cross the continent, financing his trip by his own earnings en route, without recourse to his bank account, and reach his destination as the ablest of some people to travel extensively and at the same time earn good incomes. Mr. Kumpf ridiculed an assertion of Dr. Young, saying he could cross the country, earning $5 in every place he stopped, and the young physician was promptly challenged to do so.

The bet grew out of a discussion as to the ability of some people to travel extensively and at the same time earn good incomes. Mr. Kumpf ridiculed an assertion of Dr. Young, saying he could cross the country, earning $5 in every place he stopped, and the young physician was promptly challenged to do so.

Dr. Young, thereupon, prepared his Columbus roadster and started for Maine, there to begin a run that will mean a dollar a mile if he wins.

David Bruce-Brown, twice winner of the American Grand Prix race, has challenged Bolliot, the great French driver, who won the French Grand Prix in 1910 on June 25 and 26, to meet him in this year's American Grand Prix race at Milwaukee. Bruce-Brown won the first day's round of the French race and was leading on the second day when he ran short of gasoline and was disqualified for taking on a fresh supply of fuel at a spot not designated as an official supply station.

As yet Bolliot has not indicated whether he will come to America for the big race, but it is generally believed that he will. The Grand Prix race will be held in Milwaukee on September 17, 1912.

Southern Corporation Puts New Electric Invention on Market.

The Southern Electric Light and Power Supplying Corporation, a new concern, with a little more than two years' growth, has a splendid proposition to make on the wonderful new battery of Thomas A. Edison. Among many desirable features, this battery contains no acid to eat the paint and trimmings of your car; it will not lose the current it holds if left for a very long time unused; it gives a steady, even light, and gives power warning when in need of recharging, and cannot be injured unless actually wrecked or undered.

While time, magnetism, and sodium," he said, "are to be found in practically every form of food, potassium was often absent, and the English fashion of cooking results in people eating 'muck minus minerals.'"

"Fifty years ago 500 women and 200 men per 1,000,000 died of cancer, and today the figures are 1,000 and 500, respectively."

"The savage never suffers from the disease, nor did the black and other native races until they began to cook in 'white man' fashion. Food ought to be cooked conservatively and eaten with the natural juices."

causes for each stop—whether for bridge inspection, impassable roads, or fuel.

"Some people seem to be in doubt whether the electric current in passing from one point to another on a spark plug merely fills the gap or actually jumps it," said Emil Grossman, manufacturer of the Red Head spark plug. "And I have often asked the question. The truth of the matter is that the current is momentarily stored through means of the coil, and when the circuit is broken by means of the commutator or other form of interrupter the tendency of the current is to keep on flowing, so it is the gap in the order to complete its circuit, as it does, or tends to do, it is necessary for it to jump from one point to another."
